Special seasonal package rates are usually offered as well, at www.stephenguitarlessons.com/rates.html
All policies are explained in full on my website at www.stephenguitarlessons.com/faq.html

Introductory Lesson:

- I'm happy to offer to all new students a free, no-obligation introductory lesson, so you can see if you want to continue with a paid lessons package. (Sorry, only one free intro lesson per family)

Audio and Video Recordings:

- Audio: Free! Just ask to have the file sent over after your lesson.
- Video: Also free; please schedule this service ahead of time, though.

Visual Inspection of Student's Instrument, for Playability Issues:

- No charge; I can address many small issues, and I can help you find a reputable luthier or repairperson for anything more involved.

Sheet Music / Printed Music Material for Lessons:

- I always provide music/tab for any material or exercises that we go over in the lessons, for free.

Equipment Usage / Purchase Costs:

- No charge to use my guitar at a lesson if you forget yours. (But I can't loan it out between lessons)
 - You're welcome to use my amp during the lessons, for those of you playing electric guitar
 - I recommend obtaining a metronome and a tuner if you don't already have those for your practice sessions; I don't sell them, but I'm happy to help you select a free app...just ask!

Rescheduling / Cancellation Policy:

- Every weekend I send out emails reminding each student of their lesson for the upcoming week. If at any time you find that you won't be able to make your regularly scheduled lesson for any week, we'll try to reschedule it for that same week; if we can't, it will be considered a "missed" lesson. Packages of 6 or 8 lessons get one allowed "missed" lesson before I start deducting them from your package; packages of 10 lessons get two; packages of 12 lessons get three. (Please see the FAQ on my website for full details.) And of course I never charge if I need to reschedule a lesson...and I never reschedule unless I absolutely have to.
